A University

THERE are few earthly things more beautiful than a University. It is a place where those who hate ignorance may strive to know, where those who perceive truth may strive to make others see; where seekers and learners alike, banded together in the search for knowledge, will honor thought in all its finer ways, will welcome thinkers in distress or in exile, will uphold ever the dignity of thought and learning and will exact standards in these things. They give to the young in their impressionable years the bond of a lofty purpose shared, of a great corporate life whose links will not be loosed until they die. They give young people that close companionship for which youth longs, and that chance of the endless discussion of themes which are endless—without which youth would seem a waste of time. ¶There are few earthly things more splendid than a University. In these days of broken frontiers and collapsing values—when every future looks somewhat grim, and every ancient foothold has become something of a quagmire, wherever a University stands, it stands and shines; wherever it exists, the free minds of men, urged on to full and fair inquiry, may still bring wisdom into human affairs.

Report of the President

Mr. President and Members of the Board of Directors of Lycoming College:

Today we meet, apart from the confusion of campus life and the stress of business engagements, in the calm of Pennsylvania mountains. We are miles from the campus, but the College is with us. It is wherever men and women who are concerned turn their minds to the challenge of education.

Therefore, though I speak directly to you, I speak also to the friends of Lycoming College wherever they may be. We shall be about important business during our meeting here.

We cannot escape the pressures of change and crises, though we run to the mountains. We cannot be deaf to the calls of men and women who are hungry for knowledge. We cannot be blind to the movements in the world which demand the highest level of academic achievement possible.

We carry upon our backs the burden of our task. But in our faces we must carry the light of faith and hope and love. Some of our tasks will appear impossible, but we must approach them in confidence. Perhaps they seem impossible only because they will take a little longer.

This report is designed to be a statement of the stewardship of your College administration. We believe that you have every reason to be proud of what is happening on the campus of Lycoming. J

*W. Vernon Middleton, Resident
Bishop of the Western Pennsylvania
Area of The Methodist Church*

The Board of Directors

Today we welcome to a seat on the Board of Directors, Bishop W. Vernon Middleton, Resident Bishop of the Western Pennsylvania Area of The Methodist Church. Bishop Middleton, a graduate of Dickinson College and Drew University, was elected to the Office of Bishop in The Methodist Church by the Northeastern Jurisdictional Conference in June of this year. Formerly he had served the Church as General Secretary of the Division of National Missions of the Board of Missions. When elected Bishop, he was a member of the Philadelphia Annual Conference.

We regret the necessity to report the death of Mrs. W. Edward Watkins, wife of Dr. W. Edward Watkins, Honorary Director. Mrs. Watkins died in the Williamsport Hospital on August 3, 1960. She was a loyal Methodist and a faithful friend of the College. For many years she had been the constant companion of her husband during a distinguished career in the ministry of the Central Pennsylvania Annual Conference.

The Faculty

Studying under a Graduate Study Grant, John G. Hollenback, Associate Professor of Business Administration, was enrolled for the Academic Year 1959-60 in the Graduate School at the University of Pennsylvania. He has now returned to the Campus as an active member of the Faculty in the Division of Business Administration where he has been appointed Head of the Department of Business Administration.

John W. Chandler, on Sabbatical Leave for 1959-60, pursued his graduate studies in the Fine Arts at The Graduate School, Boston University. He, too, has returned to the Faculty as Head of the Department of Art with the rank of Associate Professor.

THE FACULTY

During the summer, Mr. Chandler accepted an invitation to become a Fellow of the International Institute of Arts and Letters. Membership in the Institute is limited to seven hundred and sixty Fellows and Corresponding Members "qualified by notable achievements in Arts and Letters or in Sciences and of fields of culture."

The newly established Summer Sabbatical Leave program made it possible for three members of the Faculty to utilize the summer months in study and travel. Dr. George W. Howe, Professor of Biology, traveled abroad to study the ways in which continental glaciation has affected the topography of Northern Europe. His studies took him to the British Isles, France, Germany, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, Denmark, and Norway.

Dr. J. Milton Skeath, Professor of Psychology, visited a select number of institutions of higher education in the United States to study the nature of the undergraduate courses offered in experimental psychology and to determine what undergraduate course of study was most acceptable in applying for admission to graduate school as a psychology major.

Mr. Phil G. Gillette, Associate Professor of Spanish, traveled to the University of Madrid in Spain where he studied in the School of Philosophy and Letters. The major portion of his study was in Spanish culture. In addition to his formal studies, Mr. Gillette was granted an interview by Ramon Menindez Pidal, the President of the Spanish Royal Academy and the greatest Spanish philologist of this century.

At this point I would like to reaffirm my faith in the Summer Sabbatical Leave program. Anything the College can do to inspire and enrich the teaching function of the faculty is a service well worth the cost in time and effort and money. The program of the College is stronger because of these summer excursions into the realm of knowledge.

Graduate degrees were awarded to two members of the Faculty as a result of work completed during the summer. Howard L. Ramsey, Assistant Professor of Religion, received the Doctor of Philosophy degree from Columbia University. Budd F. Whitehill, Instructor in Physical Education, was awarded the Master of Education degree by The Pennsylvania State University.

Currently, Dr. Thomas G. Barnes, Associate Professor of History, is on Leave of Absence to serve as Visiting Lecturer in History at the University of California, Berkeley, California. Michael M. Wargo, Assistant Professor of History, has been awarded a Graduate Study Grant to complete the work for his doctorate in philosophy at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio. ✓

Dr. Philip C. Hammond resigned as Director of Religious Activities and Assistant Professor of Religion to accept an appointment to the faculty of Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, New Jersey.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT, 1960

The Faculty has been enriched and strengthened by the addition of the following persons for the Academic Year 1960-61:

Dr. Oldrich H. Kadlec, Associate Professor of Modern Languages
 Dr. Robert H. Byington, Assistant Professor of English
 Theodore K. Frutiger, Assistant Professor of Mathematics
 Dr. Eloise Gompf, Assistant Professor of History
 L. Paul Neuffer, Assistant Professor of Religion
 Muriel L. Toppan, Cataloguing Librarian with Rank of Assistant Professor
 Wayne Allen, Instructor in History
 Eduardo Guerra, Instructor in Religion
 Mrs. Donna R. Miller, Instructor in Physical Education
 Mrs. Janice M. Stebbins, Instructor in Biology

Student Enrollment

The 1960-61 Academic Year opened with a maximum enrollment which totalled 996 students. This compares with a total of 917 enrolled as of October 1, 1959.

The size of the student body made it necessary for us to find accommodations for 39 men in private homes within walking distance of the campus. However, these men are eating in the College dining room and are counted among the dormitory students.

them outstanding records of achievement in secondary schools and a fine record in the Scholastic Achievement Tests of the College Entrance Examination Board. They have shown a fine cooperative spirit on campus and give every evidence of being the best young people we have ever admitted to Lycoming.

Non-Resident Women	29	3	6	11	49
Total	332	16	56	23	427

The problem of College Admissions becomes increasingly severe. Lycoming College is anxious to provide educational opportunities for as many able young people as we can adequately serve. You will want to know that we are looking for satisfactory high school records and adequate CEEB scores. We are pleased to find students who have a special contribution which they can make to the life of the campus. We are especially happy to find capable Methodist students among our applicants. As a Methodist institution, we feel a strong responsibility for Methodist young people.

Student Affairs

The most significant problem facing the College as the Fall Term began was in the area of housing. The new Residence Hall for Women, scheduled for completion September 15, had encountered unavoidable delays. As a consequence, it was necessary to absorb 66 women in Rich Hall and Rich House. This was done with a minimum of friction and the reaction of the students has been uniformly good as they adjust to a difficult situation.

Recognition must be given here to Dean Jack C. Buckle, Dean of Students, and Dean Helen M. Felix, Dean of Women, for the remarkable way in which they have supervised this period of adjustment. They have turned a disadvantage into a learning situation in which every person involved may grow into maturity. This is only one way to say the educational process is not confined to the classroom. Ever and again the administrative staff member finds himself in a position to teach.

The Campus Leaders' Conference, held this year for the first time, brought together about 50 of the student leaders of the campus for a week-end conference to discuss important items of campus concern. Included on the agenda were such topics as: Student Judiciary, Financing

THE CURRICULUM

Student Activities, Student Responsibility in Campus Life, Academic Dishonesty, and the Future of the College. Sponsored by Student Government, the conference was designed to define the special areas of activity in which Student Government should be involved.

The Student Personnel Staff has been expanded and strengthened by the addition of the following persons:—

MR. WILLIAM KAUFFMAN,

Assistant Dean of Men and Head Resident of Men's Dormitories

MRS. GERTRUDE PETERS,

Head Resident of the New Dormitory for Women

MRS. MARIE SKEATH, House Director, Rich House

MRS. EMALINE DEIBERT, Nurse

MRS. LOUISE PARKIN, Nurse

MRS. EMMA WILT, Nurse

The Curriculum

Curriculum reorganization was the major order of faculty business for the academic year 1959-60. Discontent with the rigid system of requirements and the fact that too much academic work was being done on the freshman-sophomore level by upperclassmen led the Faculty to recommend a new program that has its principal emphasis upon depth of course work.

The program is designed to aid in the accomplishment of objectives that Lycoming College has set for itself. It does this by reason of its insistence upon satisfactory completion of requirements that will insure acquaintance with the cultural, social, and natural world. Students are required to pass one six-hour sequence of courses in each of the following areas:

1. Fine Arts: Art, Music, or Theatre.
2. Literature in any language.
3. Religion or Philosophy.
4. History or Political Science.
5. Economics, Psychology, or Sociology.
6. Biology, Chemistry, Geology, or Physics.

In addition, students are required to elect one additional course beyond the first year in at least three of the previously selected departments listed above.

Students are also required to pass a sequence of courses in English composition as well as a two-year sequence in either mathematics or one of the foreign languages.

A major amounting to approximately 30 semester hours of work is required of all students. Additional requirements for graduation include Chapel attendance, Physical Education, and Freshman Orientation.

Religious Life

Without any question, the Chapel Program at Lycoming commands the respect of Faculty and Student Body alike. The program is designed to bring to the College Chapel the fine pulpit voices which are being heard across the land. But more than this, the program is intended to provide opportunities for a personal encounter with these minds in small group discussions and in private interviews. By a fire-side, over a coffee cup, around the lunch table, there are many questions to be asked and answers to be explored.

The spirit of the Chapel program is often reflected in the classroom or in the residence hall. It is good that it should be so, for the College affirms "the Christian faith as a valid interpretation of the vocation of humanity." Fundamental to our purpose is our commitment to the Christian faith set in the tradition of the liberal arts.

The wood engraving of Charles Wesley created by John De Pol, one of the leading woodblock artists in the nation today, continues the Lycoming Series of wood engravings from Methodist History. This art work will be used as the distinguishing characteristic of all the religious life publications of the year.

Under the direction of L. Paul Neufer, Assistant Professor of Religion, the College has established a Christian Education Training Center. This program is designed to offer an opportunity for graduates to be trained adequately enough to offer themselves for volunteer churchmanship in the communities where they live. It also proposes to train students to become professional educational assistants in a local church.

In conjunction with his work at the College, and in cooperation with the Board of Education of the Central Pennsylvania Annual Conference, Mr. Neufer continues the in-service training program for ministers in the Departmental Training Seminar. This program is no longer experimental. It has proved itself and is now firmly established as one of the most significant developments in the field of Christian Education.

Middle States Evaluation

By all odds, the most significant feature of the 1959-60 academic year was the re-accreditation visit of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The Team of Visitors, under the Chairmanship of President Daniel Z. Gibson of Washington College, Chestertown, Md., visited the campus February 14-17, 1960. As a result of this visit, the accreditation of the College has been reaffirmed.

The report says, in part, "The Visiting Committee is deeply and favorably impressed with the remarkable accomplishments of Lycoming in the three brief years since the University Senate of The Methodist Church conducted a survey of its campus and operations. Much remains to be done, and the task will never be concluded; but an alert and able administration, an interested and working board of trustees, and a clear vision of its proper direction—all of which the college possess—augur well for the future . . ."

" . . . The College is in good health and good hands. The organization is adequate for the job; the finances are in good condition; the library is adequate and well run; the money is available for good faculty; and the enrollment picture encourages the idea of a progressively improved student body. Lycoming College was accredited ten years ago, and a continuation of that status is unquestionably valid today."

This, of course, gives the College tremendous reason for rejoicing. We move into the future in confidence that the College is growing in the right direction. We continue our unending "pursuit of excellence."

Summer Activities

The facilities of the College are in almost constant use throughout the summer months. For the most part, the campus is being used by a variety of groups related to the Church. Many requests for such events must be rejected because there are not enough weeks in the summer to satisfy the demand.

The program for the Summer of 1960 will indicate the breadth of coverage of this service to the Church and to our community responsibilities.

Grounds and Buildings

The development of campus facilities has moved forward at an accelerated pace. The new Residence Hall for Women will provide excellent facilities for 66 students. Though being completed somewhat behind schedule, this facility will greatly improve our residence situation. We have actually added 66 women to the student body whom we would not have been able to accept without this dormitory. There is every reason why we should give immediate attention to the time schedule which will allow us to complete this building in accord with our original plans.

By the action of this Board at the Annual Meeting (June, 1960), the President and Treasurer were authorized to submit an application to the Housing and Home Finance Agency for the reservation of funds for the construction of men's residence halls. This was done, and the College has on reserve the sum of $900,000 for this purpose. Final applications, including plot plans and building specifications, should be filed within 90 days in order to claim this reserve. These facilities will be designed to replace the present inadequate fraternity housing facilities, and the sub-marginal facilities which have been used in Old Main.

The Athletic Field is currently under construction with a football playing area and a one-quarter mile cinder track with a 220 yard straight-a-way. Efforts are being made to have the track ready for inter-collegiate use in the Spring of 1961 and the football field in the Fall of 1961.

Financial Affairs

The problem of financing higher education has always been difficult. This is so whether you are responsible for the College budget or for the education of your own children.

The independent college cannot provide an adequate educational program financed by the fees which students pay. Therefore, it is necessary for the College, through gifts and contributions, endowments and auxiliary enterprises, to provide additional funds equal to the need.

Lycoming is proud of its history as a Methodist institution and is pleased with the growing financial support which has come from the Church. Whereas the College received $8,000 in 1955, the support for 1950-60 amounted to $61,540. This total was made possible by gifts from the following Annual Conferences and the General Board of Education:

Central Pennsylvania	$29,091
Erie	7,766
Pittsburgh	4,953
Philadelphia	7,296
New Jersey	1,965
Wyoming	5,969
General Board of Education	4,500

Your attention should be directed also to the increasing support which has come to the College through the Foundation for Independent Colleges, Inc. (Pa.) From a modest beginning of $861 in 1955 the share of this support which comes to Lycoming has increased to $11,128.

The College closed the financial books on the Current Operations on June 30, 1960, with a balance of $30,017. This amount was transferred to surplus from which $43,434 additional was expended for Capital Improvement. This indicates a very close financial operation in which both income and expenditures reached new levels, the final figures being in excess of $1,200,000.

The Future of The College

Every bit of evidence points to a very strong operation on the campus of Lycoming College. However, such strength has its way of making demands on our time and energy as we face the future. A strong college program requires experimentation and adventure and courage. We can never rest where we are because there is so much more that clamors to be done.

THE FUTURE OF THE COLLEGE

We have made giant strides forward in the whole area of the College curriculum. But the faculty must be confronted constantly with their responsibility to strengthen and enrich the curricular offerings.

We have advanced rapidly in the areas of financing higher education and the annual budget has become big business. The advance in student costs has been supported by substantial increases in gifts and contributions. And careful financial management has made it possible for the college to realize the maximum of value from each dollar.

We have erected new buildings which have materially and substantially improved the living conditions on campus. However, we have given only a little more than token attention to new and modern instructional facilities and we have given no attention at all to the improvement of those areas of the College used for administrative purposes. These problem areas were brought into focus for us by visitors to the campus from the University Senate of The Methodist Church as well as the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

It was to meet this need that we requested permission of the Central Pennsylvania Annual Conference to conduct a church-centered campaign to raise $1,000,000. This request was referred to a special Advisory Committee which, in cooperation with the Commission on World Service and Finance, was directed to study the total fund-raising responsibility of the Annual Conference and report to its next session. This committee is currently at work and will be prepared to present its recommendation when the Conference meets. The need for this campaign becomes increasingly imperative as the College faces the demand of the days ahead.

We can ill afford to fail to provide the very best instructional materials and facilities if the faculty is to be expected to inspire quality performance from the student body. The newly installed Language Laboratory is but one evidence of the way in which modern equipment can make the educational experience interesting and exciting.

Conclusion

The procession moves on. It is a colorful parade accented by the purple and blue and gold of academic life. But there is more than color here. There are goodness and beauty and truth. There are devotion and dedication and hard work.

Words and statistics cannot tell the entire story of an institution. Pictures help, but you have to feel the spirit of the College if you would really understand. This is reflected in a faculty study where, surrounded by his books, a man journeys in the world of knowledge. It is reflected in the library or the laboratory where one student, alone, explores the mystery of the unknown. It is reflected in the Chapel where hundreds unite to worship. It is reflected in the residence hall where a few students "bat the breeze" and end up by asking some of life's most important questions. It is reflected on the playing field where students learn to give and take in combat. It is reflected in lonely mountain retreats where those who have a concern accept their responsibility for leadership.

At all of these points, Lycoming College is very much alive. We are strong for the responsibility we face. We are determined that Lycoming shall move forward in paths of distinguished service to the young people of our time.

To this end we dedicate ourselves. And we invite all who are interested in the College to join us in this dedication.

GENTLEMEN:

I have examined the Balance Sheet of Lycoming College at June 30, 1960, and the related Statement of Operations for the fiscal year then ended. My examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as I considered necessary in the circumstances . . .

In my opinion, the accompanying Balance Sheet and related Statement of Operations present fairly the financial position of Lycoming College at June 30, 1960, and the results of its operations for the fiscal year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

T. DONALD WILLIAMSON,
Certified Public Accountant
